

VIRTUAL LEADERSHIP

BUILDING A RESILIENT VIRTUAL TEAM

11 April 2021 (Sunday)

10:00 am - 01:00 pm (UAE)

Course Overview

Research shows that moving to a "virtualised" world puts leadership skills to the test. The evidence suggests that leaders need to be on their A-game consistently to have teams deliver excellent performance while working away from one another. In this zoominar we explore what makes a great virtual leader. Research studies unanimously come up with the same traits: empathy, fairness, communication and listening skills, authenticity and decision-making. The very best leaders set clear visions, bring people together and go out of their way to know people as people.

Course Director

BRENDA CONNOLLY

With over 16 years of leadership experience working in high performing FTSE 100 and Fortune 500 companies, I bring hands-on experience of developing and leading teams, transforming cultures and successfully defining and executing strategy in a volatile and uncertain world. My style is adaptive, intuitive and co-creative with the purpose of releasing potential by developin inclusive mindsets and finding purpose and meaning. My work is underpinned with the knowing that when we focus on connecting authentically to ourselves and to one another we transform our teams and organisations by enhancing communication, collaboration and creativity. This is where the magic happens. We move from simply surviving to absolutely thriving.
